

INVERTED AUDIO PRESENT PAUL WHITE (LIVE) SHOREDITCH HOUSE, FRIDAY 10 APRIL 2015

For our second showcase at Shoreditch House, Inverted Audio will host an intimate live show with experimental musician Paul White on Friday 10th April 2015.

Following the release of Paul White's acclaimed new album 'Shaker Notes' on legendary Belgium imprint R&S Records, we're proud to invite Paul White to play live for us in the library room at Shoreditch House, East London.

We recommend that you read our in-depth mixtape feature with Paul White, where he discusses the makings of the album, and also provides a 10 track YouTube playlist featuring his all time favourite tracks.

"The material on this record has been made over the last couple of years, whilst also working on other projects. I'm always writing different things, and I started to notice a group of songs that were all themed around what was going on in my life directly, and they were played live too, they were like messages to myself, it just became fascinating to me how much I was being forced to learn and discover, so I kept going with it and kept grouping certain tracks together."

The event is free to attend, but we only have 25 tickets to offer. To apply for tickets you must submit your details through this form, and await an email from us on Monday 6th April, which will enable you to reserve a ticket. We will operate a first come first served policy for tickets.

Support on the night comes from Antepop, Inverted Audio editor-in-chief, who will be playing an all vinyl selection of electronic music.
